DEMPSEY

THE ROUND THAT WON FOR JACK DEMPSEY

CARPENTIER

FOURTH ROUND: Dempsey rushed Carpentier to the ropes and a left to the body made him wince. Carpentier landed a right to the head and tried to hang on. Dempsey missed, then floored Carpentier for the count of nine. Carpentier again went down, this time for the count, with a short right hook to the chin.

Dempsey stood over the fallen French idol until the count was finished, then tenderly picked up the bleeding and dazed Frenchman and dragged him to his corner.

Dempsey gave Carpentier an unmerciful beating. He opened up a cut under the challenger's eye and batted him viciously around the head with vicious rights and lefts until Carpentier's face was swollen and bleeding.

91,600 People Crowd into Arena to Witness Fight

GATES OF ARENA OPEN AT 9:45 A. M.

Crowd Swarms in Through Entrances at Early Hour Saturday.

New York. — New York and the entire metropolitan area, which embraces the new famous "big boy" fight, today, in Jersey City, seemed today with a frenzy of excitement wholly unprecedented in the annals of sport as the hour rolled slowly on for the "battle of the century" on for the "clash of the titans" for the world's heavyweight championship between Jack Dempsey, American, and Georges Carpentier, French, champion of Europe.

Ringside, Jersey City. — Gates of the big fight opened at 9:45 and in a matter of minutes the arena was packed with thousands of spectators. The crowd, which swarmed in through the gates, poured into the arena, filling the stands and the balconies, and the world's greatest fight was on. The crowd, which swarmed in through the gates, poured into the arena, filling the stands and the balconies, and the world's greatest fight was on.

No Bald-Headed Row. — Gradually, however, the wave of humanity rolled down to the ringside, as the more, more, more ticket holders reached the stadium. Unlike the ordinary show, Saturday's performance, advertised as "the battle of the century," had no exclusive bald-headed row. Hairless pate, in many cases, were replaced by cuffs and excellence for women who recently had espoused the boxer's art had turned out in full force for the carnival of blows.

Fear Many Killed in Dublin War. — The early crowd sat down to watch. They had just three things to do: debate the weather prospects, which in the morning appeared dubious; look over the world's greatest fight; and, if they had one, to get a good seat.

There will be no issue of the Gazette on the Fourth of July, Monday.

Tables Are Wanted. — Wanted to Buy—Several used kitchen tables. Will pay a good price. You can reach me through a Gazette Want Ad.

There is great demand for kitchen tables by the people in Janesville. The second hand stores have not been able to supply the demand. If you have one you will sell it for a good price through a Gazette Want Ad.

Ringside, Jersey City. — The carnival of blows, which thousands mused today about a little 18 foot ring in Jersey City, opened at 12:10 with preliminary bouts that served as cocktails for the feast—the battle between Jack Dempsey, of America, and Georges Carpentier, of France, for the heavyweight boxing title of the world.

Remarkable Fight Crowd. — When champion and challenger swapped the stage, it was under the gaze of one of the most remarkable fight crowds ever assembled—a crowd that came from the four corners of the earth, poured into the arena, filling the stands and the balconies, and the world's greatest fight was on.

Fifty Dollar Seats Filled. — By noon the four rows of $50.75 seats had been filled and all the standing space about the outer rim was occupied. The $10, $15, $20, $25, $30 and $40 sections, which were full and a sea of faces from boxes to ringside was every moment getting fresh drops.

Champ Eats Heartily. — The champion did not let the coming bout affect his appetite. When the call came for dinner, Jack was first among those present. He was eating portions of steak, potatoes, string beans and toast, and would up with a large pot of tea.

Aged Rockford Woman Killed in Accident on Walworth-Darien Road. — Mrs. Morris C. Young, 75 of Rockford, was killed and four others were slightly injured and shaken up when a touring car turned turtle Friday night on the Walworth-Darien road about three miles from here.

The Fight by Rounds

(By Associated Press)

First Round—They were sent away at 3:18. Carpentier landed a light left and clinched. Carpentier landed a right. Carpentier missed a right but connected with a left hook. Dempsey punished him, beating him unmercifully. Carpentier was groggy and bleeding at the nose. Dempsey missed a right swing, but beat Carpentier as they clinched. Carpentier fell through the rope trying to avoid a punch. He flew into Dempsey when he crawled back into the ring and landed several blows on the champion's body at the bell. Dempsey had the better of the round.

Second Round—Carpentier missed a left and clinched. Carpentier backed away and Dempsey hooked him with a right to the jaw. Dempsey followed after him, beating him around the head with rights. Carpentier was short with the left hook, but he staggered the champion with six rights and lefts to the jaw. Dempsey staggered back a bit and split the Frenchman's left eye with a hook. The cut was under the eye. Carpentier missed a right swing. Dempsey missed a right. They exchanged body punches in the clinch.

Third Round—Carpentier ducked a left hook. Dempsey backed into the ropes and hit him with a short right. Carpentier landed two uppercuts to the body in a clinch. As they clinched, Dempsey punished the invader in the body and Carpentier nearly fell down when he missed a wild swing. They missed lefts to the head and Dempsey punished Carpentier viciously in the infighting. Dempsey landed a left and right to the head without a return, they exchanged left hooks to the jaw. Carpentier's right swing was short and Dempsey clubbed him on the jaw with left hooks in the clinch. Dempsey battered Carpentier into a corner with rights and lefts at the bell. The bell saved Carpentier from a knockout. Dempsey's round.

The actual time of fighting in the fourth round, was one minute and 16 seconds. Previous to the knockout Carpentier was floored with a left to the body and a right to the chin. Carpentier took a count of nine before springing to his feet, where the grim, determined Dempsey measured him with a punch to the chin which ended the battle.

Carpentier Flat on His Face

Ringside, Jersey City. — Georges Carpentier finished his bout with Champion Jack Dempsey Saturday night on his back. He was flat on his back, stretched in the fourth round. Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, knocked him out a few seconds after the round opened, sending him heavily to the canvas with a short hook to the chin. The actual time of fighting in the fourth round, was one minute and 16 seconds. Previous to the knockout Carpentier was floored with a left to the body and a right to the chin. Carpentier took a count of nine before springing to his feet, where the grim, determined Dempsey measured him with a punch to the chin which ended the battle.

Carpentier fought gamely back at the champion, but he was outclassed. Once he was half knocked and half pushed through the ropes and most of the time was going away from the champion. Dempsey kept after him, driving him to the corner whenever he had an opportunity.

Carpentier was out only a few seconds. Manager Decamps supplied first aid as quickly as the dazed Frenchman dropped into his chair. Police immediately climbed into the ring and made a path for the champion and Carpentier to go to their dressing rooms.

Fighters Get Into Ring and Prepare for the Battle

(By Associated Press)

Ringside, Jersey City. — At 2:57 Carpentier came into the ring and two minutes later Dempsey came in. Carpentier wore a long grey bathrobe over his fighting trunks. Dempsey came into the ring in his white silk fighting trunks and a maroon sweater coat. He greeted the French challenger with a friendly "hello, Georges" when they shook hands in the center of the ring.

Looking Them Over. — Benjamin Hayes, Jack Kearns and Mike Grant and Bernard Dempsey, the champion's brother, were in Dempsey's corner, with Manager Kearns in charge. Dempsey's four-ace and Eddie Leacock was in charge of the Carpentier corner. Examines Bandages. — Manager Decamps went to Dempsey's corner and demanded the right to examine the hand bandages. He exactly pushed Dempsey's seconds away and watched carefully as the tape was wound around Dempsey's fists. Mayor Hague of Jersey City and officials of the New Jersey Boxing commission were introduced from the ring. While this was going on Carpentier kept constantly looking aloft at two airplanes soaring overhead. Governor Edwards of New Jersey was called into the ring and introduced. Bill Brennan was introduced and he welcomed the winner. There was a delay of a few minutes while Dempsey's hands were being bandaged.

Tied on the Gloves. — With this over, a new pair of eight ounce gloves were tied on Dempsey's hands by Manager Kearns. Decamps locked the gloves on Carpentier. The weights were officially announced as follows: Carpentier, 172 pounds; Dempsey, 155. This was two pounds lighter than the figure Dempsey hoped to be when he got into the ring. Promoter Tex Rickard crawled into the ring and wormily shook hands with both fighters. Harry Erbe, the referee, was at the center of the ring while the gloves were being tied on.

Milk to Stay at 11 Cents Here in July. — Despite a 25 cent increase in the wholesale price of 100 pounds of milk, there will be no increase in the retail price in Janesville. The three milk companies here announce that the price for quarts will remain at 11 cents and pints at 7 cents during the month of July at least.

SHERIFF CLOSES UP WHITE CITY CAFE. — The White City Cafe, 971 McKee boulevard, has been closed by Sheriff Cash Whipple. Standing debts are said to be the reason. This cafe was completely remodeled a few months ago by the manager, Herman Margraf and a chop suey establishment made of it. It was a flourishing establishment during the time that the Samson company was being built nearby all the men eating their dinners there. It was raided at one time by the police, on charge of selling illicit liquor but no evidence was found.

ALLEGED DESERTER TAKEN TO GRANT. — Sergeant James arrived in Janesville Saturday and took Harry Habel, alleged deserter, back to Camp Grant for court-martial. Young Habel, a Janesville youth, was picked up by police here at his home on Jackson street following notice from Rockford military officers.

STEAL COITS. — Someone is building a car-out of stolen parts—George Chase, 223 North Franklin, reports the theft of coils from his car.

Henry Kerl, 27, Veteran of Overseas Service Suicide by Hanging. — Discouraged and despondent over his failure to improve following a nervous breakdown three months ago, Henry Kerl, 27, overseas veteran, committed suicide by hanging shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The body was found by his father on the second floor of the barn in the rear of the home, 612 Park avenue.

STOUGHTON CAR IS STOLEN IN EDGERTON. — A five-passenger Dort touring car, owned by Frank Benson, Stoughton, was stolen in Edgerton, Friday night, according to notification to police here. The car was a 1920 model with license 14102 and motor number 27446.

CROWD IMPATIENT AT PRELIMINARIES

Little Demonstration As Lesser Bouts Are Run Off in Arena.

Ringside, Jersey City. — In accordance with the New Jersey boxing law, no decision was rendered by the referee at the end of the first preliminary between Johnny Curtin and Mickey Delmont, featherweights, but Curtin was generally conceded to have outpointed Delmont.

The crowd was extraordinarily quiet for a fight audience. During the first bout there was hardly a sound but the clang of the gong and the thud of blows.

There was a sigh of relief as the bout ended. The crowd arose and stretched after its first taster. The second bout, between Paddy O'Grady and Frankie Burns, bantamweights, followed immediately.

Johnny Curtin outpointed Mickey Delmont in the first preliminary. Frankie Burns had the edge on points over Paddy O'Grady in the second.

The referee stopped the Herman Metranza bout in the fifth when Metranza was hanging helpless on the ropes.

Gene Tunney beat Soldier Jones in seven rounds. The referee stopped the bout when Jones was hanging defenseless on the ropes.

Wanderer Sane; May Hang Soon. — Chicago—Carl Wanderer, convicted slayer of his wife, his unborn child and a "ragged stranger" is sane, a jury in Judge David's court decided here Saturday.

Yank Marines Are Landed at Town of Ismid. — Paris—A detachment of American Marines have been landed at Ismid, a town about 500 miles south-east of Constantinople in Asia Minor, for the purpose of protecting Americans there on the retirement of Greek troops, says a dispatch to the French foreign office.

Countess Bernstorff to Get Property Back. — Washington—Allen Property Custodian Miller was ordered Saturday by Justice Hitz of the District of Columbia supreme court to return to Countess Von Bernstorff the former German ambassador to the United States, stocks, bonds and cash amounting to $1,000,000, which was seized under the trading with the enemy act.

THE WEATHER FOR WISCONSIN. — Increasing clouds, probably followed by showers Sunday and in west portion Saturday night; continuing warm.

Prediction for week: Occasional showers first half; mostly fair latter half; warm at beginning of week; followed by somewhat cooler weather.

CONGRESS VOTES RESOLUTION TO END WAR STATE COMPROMISE ADOPTED BY SENATE AFTER HOUSE ACTION. UP TO PRESIDENT

Conference Report Passed by Upper House, 33-19;
G. O. P. Solid.

Washington, D. C.—The war with Germany and Austria is over, so far as Congress is concerned. The final legislative action to end the conflict was taken Friday, and as soon as President Harding does his part, as he has already pledged himself to do, peace will be formally restored, approximately two and a half years after hostilities ceased.

The conference report on the peace resolution was adopted by the senate Friday by a vote of 33 to 19, following favorable action on the measure by the house Thursday. The report was then sent back to the house to be signed by the speaker in regular session. A moment later it was back again before the senate, where Vice President Coolidge attached his signature.

Sent to President
It was then sent at once to the White House. It probably will be forwarded to President Harding at the summer residence of Senator Protheroe in New Jersey.

The restoration of peace may be an accomplished fact Saturday, although the belief prevailed in some quarters that the president might withhold the proclamation of peace until July 4 to give independence day a special significance this year.

The resolution as finally adopted by congress is really a compromise between Germany and Austria at an end, and reserves to the United States all rights and privileges which this nation would have obtained under the treaty of Versailles.

Republicans Solid
The senate republicans, as usual, presented a solid front in favor of the resolution. All of the 19 votes against it were cast by democrats. Three democrats—Shields, Tennessee; Walsh, Massachusetts; and Watson, Georgia, supported the resolution.

White House editors, including Reed, Mifflin, were paired in favor of it. The roll call was preceded by hours of debate, described by Senator Brandegee, Connecticut, as "unprecedented, idle, fruitless, and unnecessary."

Most of the talkers were content with half a dozen demagogues, who continued to protest against the "unprecedented method" of making peace.

STORY OF THE FIGHT AND SCENES OF THE DAY

As noon approached, boxes situated half way back in the arena took on the appearance of a horse show crowd doing the unusual. Society women, smartly dressed and wearing hats of many colors and styles, were seen munching sandwiches and drinking soda pop.

The referee stopped the German-Metragan bout in the first round when Metragan was hanging helplessly on ropes. The fourth bout was between Dick Griffin, Port Worth, Tex., and Benny Coster, New York, bantamweight.

The international aspect of the affair was apparent in the flags and ribbons carried on worn by the spectators. An impromptu band, recruited from the crew of a French steamship in the harbor, furnished amusement to a crowd packing one of the early tube trains.

$120,000 OF ROAD BONDS ARE SOLD

Demand of Individuals Much Heavier Than Anticipated.

Rock county has been able to sell approximately $120,000 worth of the highway improvement bonds to local buyers, indicating that there is considerable more available cash in the county than generally believed.

The success of the bond sale was announced Saturday by County Treasurer Arthur M. Church.

Additional applications for bonds will be received by the county treasurer until July 1. Action was taken to assure the letting of the contract for the concrete road north from Indian Ford to Edgerton. Sufficient funds are now assured for the completion of the road north from Indian Ford to Edgerton.

Rock county banks considered taking a series of the bonds for bank deposits held in the county. The road to be built through this year.

The county finance committee in its recent ruling instructed the county treasurer to sell "over the counter" until July 1. Action was taken to assure the letting of the contract for the concrete road north from Indian Ford to Edgerton.

By the committee after this date to readvertise and seek to sell a block of the bonds. It is believed re-advertising will not be necessary.

Golf Is Test of Character, Says Champion

Omaha. — As a means of revealing a man's true character, there is no game like golf, in the opinion of Samuel Reynolds, of Omaha, four times state and city champion, and holder of the 1917 Trans-Mississippi championship.

Chiefly because of the intense interest the player has in his game, his real character is bound to reveal itself while he is at play, Mr. Reynolds said.

He said, adding that "nothing of the man's innermost feelings can be held back while he is on the links."

The name, Mr. Reynolds contended, puts a man on his mettle as to his honesty because much of the time he is out of sight of his opponent and he would be able to play a little cheating if he wanted. Mr. Reynolds ventured the opinion, however, that the standard of integrity in golf is as high, if not higher, than in any other sport, or in other words, a life.

"There are many business and professional men who would have been in their graves years ago had it not been for their taking up the game," Mr. Reynolds said.

That golf helps to promote a fraternal spirit among men, was contended by Mr. Reynolds. As an illustration, he cited the business of a professional man who is traveling on the railroad train, his bag of golf sticks with him, and who is met by a fellow passenger, also a golfer.

Mr. Reynolds said, "When they talk a language of their own and good fellowship is consequently promoted."

The playing of outdoor games, such as baseball, tennis or football, is not a cost only insofar as they make him supple, but there is at least one indoor game that helps the man who takes up golf, and that is billiards, in Mr. Reynolds' opinion.

The character which is necessary in order to make the billiard ball do what the player wants it to do, he believes would be helpful to the man who takes up golf," he said.

OBITUARY

That Horrid Word Again.
"What's the matter?" cried Mrs. Jones when Bobby came running into the house in tears, dragging his little sword behind him and rubbing his eyes. "You've been crying," she said. "I was having such a good time playing soldier."

"We were," sobbed Bobby, "and I was Sherman and papa heard me." American Legion Weekly.

COST $52 PER MAN
FOR EACH OF 16
TRACTOR GAMES HERE

Figures of the attendance at the 16 tractor games of the Janesville Tractors show that only 7,500 paid admissions passed through the gate this season. That is an average of 493, just under the 500 mark for each game. That was the average attendance for Saturday games last year when the Sunday attendance for each game was below the 1,000 mark and more than often was nearer 2,000.

In two of the games last year with the Beloit Pirates, the attendance alone went over the 5,000 mark. About $4,200 was collected in the community campaign for funds. With 11 plays in 16 games that means that the average attendance was approximately $24 a player for each game.

Paid admissions totaled approximately $5,000. On the same basis as above the rest per player would thus be $25 to those who paid their way in. In other words, had fans paid an average per player of $22 for each of the 16 games, the total would have been $3,520.

These figures do not take into consideration the fact that the expense of visiting teams had to be paid.

A. R. HATTON
Scores of American cities are better governed than any of our states. Few indeed are as badly managed as most American counties.

What has brought about this change? Certainly it has not been due to chance or to a sudden awakening of the people by some great calamity such as the Galveston flood.

It has not been due to the efforts of the national political parties or their leaders. These have usually been obstacles to the progress of the people's movement.

More than half the people of the United States now live in cities. For a long time observers of the growth and drift of population have seen this condition approaching. Only a few years ago thoughtful people viewed its coming with great concern. And well they might. It conditions of government and life in American cities had remained as they were 25 years ago we might now be trembling for the future of American institutions.

But American city government is now distinctly on the up-grade. Cities, instead of being a class on political progress, are pointing the way for other cities.

Old Russian Empire Chopped Up Into Tiny Bolshevik Republics

Riga, Latvia.—The Bolshevik government is rapidly dividing the old Russian Empire into a large number of tiny Soviet republics, each having some autonomous authority.

In addition to those ethnological units, such as Poland, Latvia, etc., which broke away from Russia on their own accord, there are now at least 20 autonomous republics within the borders of the old Empire.

Ranging in size from little commonwealths, including only a few thousand people, to the great district of the Ukraine, these "republics" occupy, it is estimated, more than one third of the area of the old Russia in Europe. The principal of the new north from the Baltic to the Black Sea, and south of the Caucasus, that very little of the old Russia in Asia remains directly under control of Moscow.

Power Is Limited.
The complete text of the Bolshevik decree, granting "autonomy" to the republics of the old Russian Empire, is being published in the Bolshevik newspaper, Pravda. It shows, however, that at least in one of these republics the autonomy is extremely limited. The decree reserves to the Bolshevik government all matters of foreign relations, foreign trade and military matters in the republics.

To some of these "autonomous" districts or republics, the Moscow newspapers give names so different from those appearing in gazettes and atlases that their exact location is extremely difficult to ascertain. They are:

Karelian Labor Commune, including a small territory north of Petrograd and west of Finland inhabited by the Karelians. The capital is Petrosavodsk. The principal is Petrosavodsk.

The autonomous territory of the Mariakans, taking in the districts of the Mariakans and Kizhiogorsk governments inhabited by the Mariakans. The principal is Mariakans.

Autonomous territory of the Volsk, including a small territory north of the town of Volsk and other parishes in the Volsk government inhabited by the Volsks.

Several Parishes.
The Autonomous Republics Commune, including several parishes in the Kazan and Simbirsk governments south of the Mariakans. Its capital is Tchekoboklar.

The Tatar Republic, including the capital Kazan, eight districts of the old Kazan government and some parishes of the Ufa, Samara, Viatka and Simbirsk governments.

The Bashkir Soviet Republic, including 14 cantons of the province of Ufa, inhabited by the Bashkirs, who have as their capital Sterlitamak.

The commune of the Volga Germans, including a small territory on the river Volga long ago settled by German immigrants.

The Trans-Caspian Soviet Republic, including the large territory of the Kirgise and Cosaks north of the Caspian Sea and taking in parts of the Caspian, Ural and Trans-Caspian districts, together with the little known district extending into Southern Asiatic Russia. Its capital is Samarkand, in the old district of the same name.

Autonomous Kalmuk Labor Commune, including a number of districts in Astrakhan bordered by the Caspian. Cosaks settlements in the Zergian government, and a small part of the Don territory.

The Autonomous Republic of Mountain, including a community on the northern slope of the Caucasus, including Vladikavkaz.

The Daghestan Republic, including the Caspian sea coast extending to the west of the Mountain Republic.

The Georgian Republic, which enjoyed some measure of autonomy under the Czar and which coincides practically with the old government of Georgia. Its capital is Tiflis. The Georgians once freed themselves from Bolshevik rule, but later were put under Moscow's control again.

The Soviet Republic of Armenia, including practically all of the ethnological district of Armenia. The exact status of this republic under Soviet control is not at present known to the outside world.

The Republic of Azerbaijan, to the west of Georgia and north of Armenia. This includes Baku and the most productive oil fields in Russia, along the Caspian.

The Ukrainian Soviet Republic, with its vast territory of fertile grain fields, along the Volga and including three of the most important Russian cities, Odessa, Kiev and Kharkov. It is probably more strictly autonomous than any of the other republics in the Russian Federation.

The White Russian Republic, a sort of a theoretical buffer state sandwiched in between Great Russia and the Polish frontier, inhabited by the "White Russians" and including the cities of Minsk and Pinsk.

JANESVILLE READY FOR QUIET FOURTH

Hundreds Will Spend Day at Surrounding Cities and Lakes.

A general exodus from this city will take place Saturday evening, Sunday and Monday, to spending the Fourth. The lakes within a radius of 30 or 40 miles will be well populated over the week-end. Swimming will be popular.

Lovers of the dance will find plenty to amuse themselves, even in Janesville. "The Pines" will be open on the Fourth and dancing will be enjoyed on an orchestra having been brought in for the occasion.

Many will go to Waverly Beach, near Beloit. A new park opens at Bluff View on the Fourth, located near Brodhead and large numbers are expected there. It is on the Sugar river, and has a long coasting device, dancing and other forms of amusement.

Evansville, Monticello and Watertown all will have community celebrations with attractions to draw outsiders. The town of Center will have a Farm Bureau picnic and the Rural Advancement club of Newark will put on an entertainment. Elkhorn will also have a celebration.

The new Central Park Gardens of Rockford will be well patronized, having amusements for everybody, young and old, including a free musical show.

Many prefer to spend the Fourth in a quiet way, and go visiting relatives in some other town and many come here to visit. The Country club will have dinner and dance Monday evening, which many of the members and their friends will attend. Mrs. Charles Toulton will have charge.

FORCE MADISONIAN INTO GREEK ARMY

Madison.—The honeymoon trip of Sam Saldos, proprietor of a local shoe shining parlor, has landed him in the Greek army, along with James Vlahos and Louis Pava, two friends who took the trip with him to their old home. ## OBITUARY

Mrs. Henry L. Robinson. Word has been received by Mrs. Harry Robinson of Janesville of the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Molly Robinson, for many years a resident of Janesville. She died June 29 at Los Angeles where the family has lived for the last six years. Mrs. Robinson was well known in Janesville where her husband, Henry L. Robinson was connected for many years with the Wisconsin Carriage company. They lived here for about 15 years, and then went to Whitewater, later moving to Los Angeles. She had been ill about one year. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Earl and Garret, all of Los Angeles.

Goldwin Loveland. The funeral of Goldwin Loveland will be held at 1:30 p. m. Sunday at the home, 305 North Pine street. Rev. R. C. Pierson will officiate and interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Belle Videtto. Mrs. Belle Videtto, 56, 207 Pleasant street, died Friday afternoon at Mercy hospital after a short illness. She was born in Wayne, Ill., August 22, 1854 and spent the early part of her life there. She was married in 1883 to George Videtto, who died two years ago. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Laura Olson, Elgin, Ill., and a brother, Harlan.

Funeral services will be held from the Whaley funeral parlors, at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Rev. J. F. Lewis officiating. Interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

$204,000 IN STATE MONEY KEPT HERE

State Treasurer Reports Balance of Eleven Million on Hand.

Janesville banks have $204,756.55 on deposit of the state money, according to a financial report of State Treasurer Henry Johnson. The state of Wisconsin apparently is far from being bankrupt for the state treasurer reports $11,000,000 on hand.

Milwaukee banks have $3,500,000 on deposit and an additional $3,900,000 has been invested in government short time certificates.

The state board of deposits selected the banks in which the state treasurer may deposit. The amount that is actually distributed to the various banks is entirely up to the state treasurer.

Department heads at Madison report that much of the $11,000,000 Wisconsin balance is already appropriated, including $8,000,000 by the state highway commission headed by A. R. Hirst. Thus far Rock county has not received any state aid for highway work.

WILLMANN GOES TO COAST, SUNDAY

Rev. Henry Willmann will leave Janesville late Sunday for Los Angeles to attend the national convention of the Elks as a delegate from the Janesville lodge. He will be gone more than four weeks.

FARMERS CONDEMN 2-PRICE MILK PLAN

300 Producers Meeting at Avalon Draw Up Strong Protest

Resolutions warning that Rock county milk producers would bolt the Chicago Marketing company if a two price plan was made effective were passed during the county meeting at Avalon Friday afternoon. More than 300 crowded into the school house to hear one of the most important milk market questions of the year.

Copies of the resolutions will be filed with the Chicago Marketing company this month.

Producers who bolted when the 50 percent spread was voted were branded with uncompromising names and speakers declared they would never get back into the association without paying the spread.

Have a New Contract. "These men who jumped out will be running themselves bewildered to get back," said Ernest Downes. "The new contract calls for ten years and six months and is all right."

"I don't believe a two price system will ever be established for there are better times coming. The marketing company is going to make a mistake."

At a number of producers jumped out and a Janesville distributor then offered them $1.50 a hundredweight for their milk. That is the fair treatment they give once they get the producers out of the association.

"We must proceed to increase the demand through a campaign to show values of milk and milk products and secure substitutes," said Mr. Downes, who organized the women's auxiliary.

Women Organized. Protest was made by township representatives in the office of the marketing company failed to give definite information.

"We seek advice and do not obtain replies. It would not be so bad if the company would give us certain dates when payment is to be made, even though late, if they will only set a time that can be depended upon by the producers," it was said during the meeting.

Policy changes had been made, it was declared, whereby mail from the producers will be promptly and satisfactorily answered.

The officers of the Women's Auxiliary, who will aid in the campaigns of the association are, Mrs. George L. Scott, president; Mrs. George Clark, secretary; Mrs. C. W. Shilwell, treasurer and Mrs. M. W. Starr, chairman of the membership committee.

Resolution Passed. The representatives present were unanimous in their approval of an advertising campaign. They seek the full cooperation of the distributors in making a country wide campaign to increase the use of Rock county milk. The committee composed of R. E. Overton, C. W. Shilwell and L. C. French was made permanent.

The resolution against two prices endorsed without a dissenting vote. The resolution read follows:

Plan Two Meetings. A committee composed of Hugh C. Hemmingsway, C. E. Oliver and Marcus K. Koenig was named by President R. E. Overton to arrange a meeting in Atton. They hope to arouse new and additional interest in that district.

Producers at the Avalon meeting declare that unless the milk distributors take action to solve the problem with them in the proper solution of the local milk market problem they will establish central distributing stations in Beloit and Janesville. The next meeting will be held in Shopiere.

16 KILLED DURING RIOTING IN ITALY

Rome. — One member of the fascist, or extreme nationalist party, was killed in Grosseto, capital of the Maremma region, during rioting Sunday. The rioting was the result of thousands of fascist journeymen to Rome, Siena and Trieste to Grosseto and ransacked the labor exchange, a communist newspaper office and a communist home. A statement issued by the fascist says that 15 communists were killed and many injured in the riots.

CHAPTER I
The "San Domingo" Dawson dance hall and gambling house, flung wide its noisy and hospitable doors. Tim Meadows, the proprietor, stood at a huge, grotesque shadow, stood in its scolding portals. He had been in his day stevedore, conductor, freight agent, prospector and miner. But he had discovered that by way of out to men's pockets was the shortest route to the Yukon with the rush and a "Keg."

"Gosh," growled Meadows, giving a hitch to his suspenders. "I wish I could lay me down on a noose-pole. Seems as if Weatherby was all-fired slow in getting our plant a-runnin'."

Meadows had sympathizers. "Old-timers" who had passed through all phases of news-papery existence. They had joined with Meadows and laid their idle hands on the desk of Weatherby, an up-to-date plant and the publication of a "real live sheet."

"You beat it down to 'Prisco, Editor,'" Tim Meadows had been deputized spokesman. "Buy machinery. Get the best. Get operators an' bring us good ones."

So Weatherby, "beat it" down to San Francisco and operator had been securing a machine. It had taken a long time. Rumor had it, however, that he had returned by the afternoon boat and with him a tall, dark, slender fellow, evidently was assigned to hold some important position in the new plant.

An unfamiliar figure picking his way down the ever-muddy street, caught and held Tim's attention. "What's the good word from the 'Outside'?"

"Five states in the Union have gone dry," answered the man. "The suspicion of a twinkie in his voice, somewhere."

Tim Meadows' great laugh clattered up and down the street. With it came a new, neatly dislocated his shoulder. Christopher Kleath was led into the "San Domingo" and straightway to the bar.

"Drinks on me, gentles!" roared the proprietor. "Health and welcome to the stranger!" He conferred out of the corner of his mouth with the objects of his generosity, and then added, "Our new 'inspector' operator. Don't tell me that our newspaper ain't goin' to be some rag!"

Kleath made a swift survey of the place. To describe the motley crowd which thronged its precincts would be almost as impossible as to describe each sparkling ripple on the surface of a lake under the mid-day sun. There was no standard in dress or manner.

The curious waltz, which had swirled about the room, embracing in its tangled melody a large variety of beautifully hand-painted ladies, came to a defiant end. A tiny blonde woman, who looked as though she should be in a schoolroom rather than a dance hall, reared across the floor and slipped her powdered arm round Kleath's, smiling up at him. Kleath smiled down into the pretty

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO CHANCE

CHAPTER LXXIV
MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

So, with a great deal of work, the spring days came and went. Lane had talked a great deal about Ruth going to New York or going any place where she could rest and have a change.

"And Ruth always agreed and always promised, but she was so busy she never found time to go."

And the whole summer went by. Ruth went out very little that summer. The people on the big estates near Marketown, who had overtures of friendship, were away most of the time, at mountains or at the shore. The Marketown paper, given later, her husband's studiousness was the reason for his failure in life, and to her "doings" as though they were quite important.

Langley, at a meeting of the Civic Committee—which by now was controlled by the town—suggested certain things that should be attended to and could only be handled in New York. There was discussion about getting a new York agent, until finally Langley suggested sending Ruth.

"Who knows as much about this town as any of us, and could carry out our commissions perfectly well?" one of the members agreed.

So it was that the girl suddenly found herself actually sent for a change, if not a vacation, with all her expenses paid.

And she could not refuse to go then, nor did any excuse.

She tried to get her work in shape so as to leave two weeks after the notice that she was to go, but so much time, things had not been going well at home.

Ruth began to realize slowly that the sympathy in the house had existed solely between her father and herself. "There was something between her mother and herself, there was something which neither could comprehend and which neither would acknowledge. It was something as intangible as a barrier as a brick wall.

After the funeral, Mrs. O'Neil and the various of the house's other husbands, and gave them to the "most worthy" man in town.

Then she, as methodically, cleaned out his room, sorted his books, burned up some papers, and belongings, and labeled "trash," and prepared to rest out that room as well as all the other rooms available in the house.

No use keeping his things, she remarked as she sat at supper one night. "His books you'll want to read again some time, so I haven't touched them. The rest of the stuff I've cleaned out."

"Ruth said nothing. But the manner in which her mother spoke went through her like a knife. She knew her mother was right—they would never touch her own various little trifles that had belonged to her father, but she knew the more fact that he had them and loved them made them sacred in her eyes—even the pipe he smoked, which now smelted of much stale tobacco. She did not want to touch the various little things—it wasn't that. It was the cold, methodical way in which her mother did it that hurt Ruth.

"Of course, we'll have to take some money and buy mourning," Mrs. O'Neil said the day before the funeral service.

"I'm not," Ruth answered.

Her mother looked shocked.

"Not wear black when your father died?"

"Father hated black, and hated to see me in it. He often asked me to wear mourning. Do you think I would make him feel better, or no, for us all to go about in black?"

"But what will people say?"

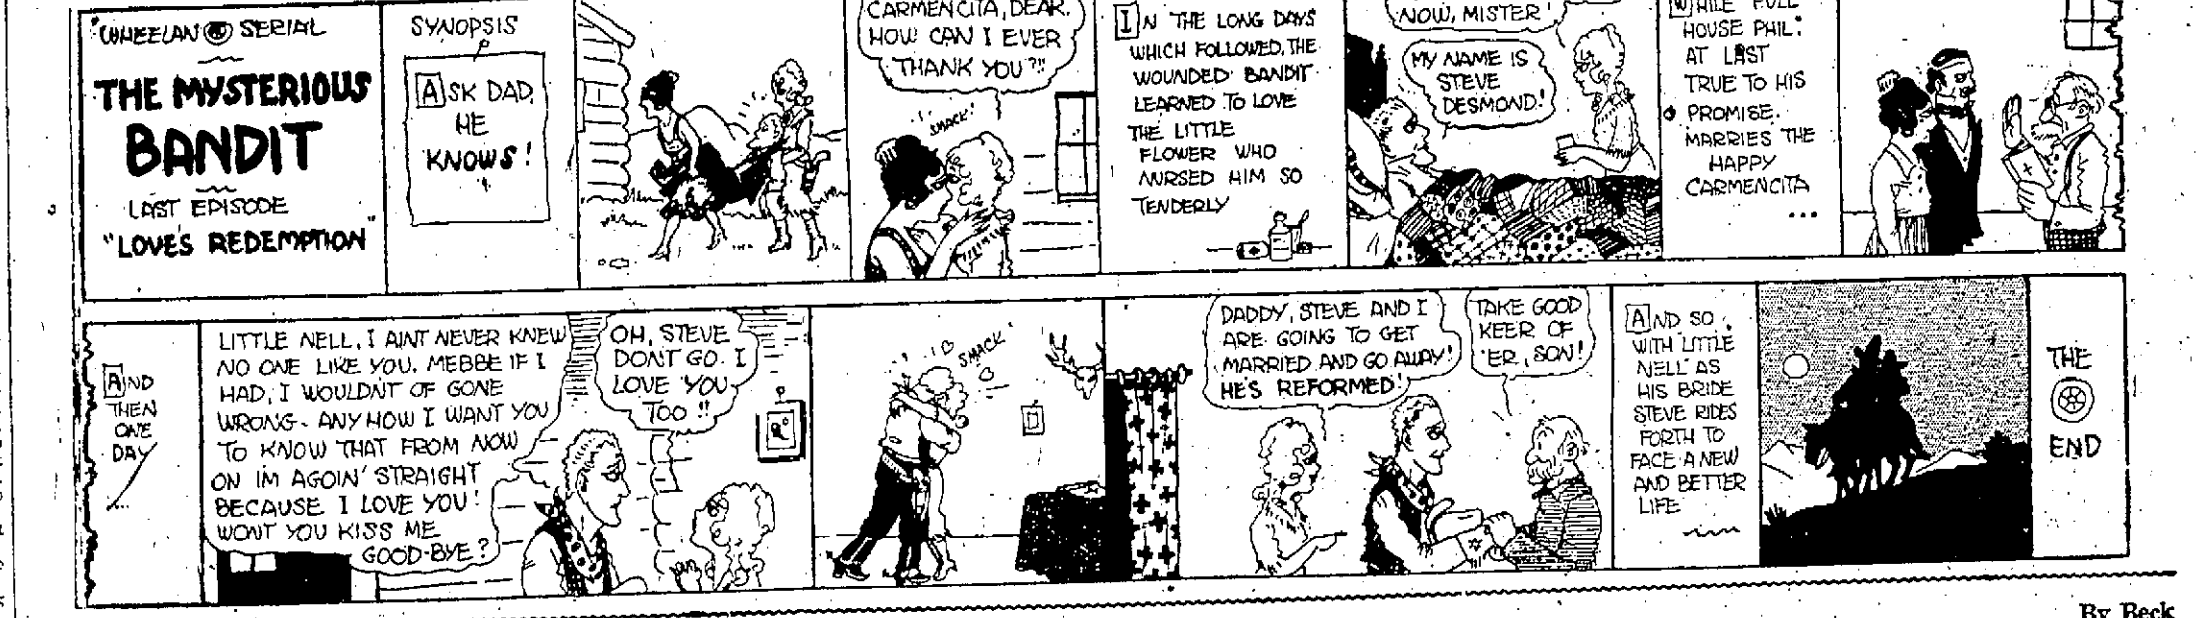

"Do you think I care what they say?" Ruth asked to herself.

"The ones I care about will know how much sorrow I feel

Today's Short Story

Nothing was so rare as Wellington Fields in reminiscence of those days before he had become internationally celebrated.

"You make a point of the ease of my solutions of seemingly baffling mysteries," he began, and then there was a pause while he stepped into his bathroom to turn off a dripping faucet, a sound he could not endure.

"You think I, at least, ought to pretend to have more difficulty in apprehending criminals. Why? For fear of imitation? How many imitators have I had, tell me? Not one, and yet I have fully exposed my methods for the past 15 years."

"I remember the most trifling service I ever gave in my career of criminology. It was before I was known, and, therefore, the story has never been told."

"Shortly after the Curie discovery of radium, a syndicate of millionaire philanthropists decided to buy 100 milligrams of the substance, which finally was produced by the refinement of a mountain of slag. This substance was worth a hundred times its weight in raw diamonds."

"Well, that radium in its golden capsule was stolen. Its passage across the country in the safety box of a bank messenger, had been well advertised. Somewhere between Buffalo and Schenectady the box was removed from the side of the messenger. He had a clew brought the police to the capture of the thief."

"I had thought a little of the case, its humanitarian appeal attracted me. About sufferers were awaiting the ra-

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 24 years old, and I have not yet recognized real love. All my life I have had men friends, and I have thought that I cared for them, but now know that I never gave deep and serious love to any of them. Love has come to me at last, but it has come in such a way that it seems impossible for me to marry and be happy. For six months I have been working as stenographer in an office. At first I admired my employer and then I learned to love him, but I did not dream that he gave me a second thought.

One night we were very busy and I had to work overtime. It was then that my employer forgot himself and showed me that he loved me.

I am an honorable girl and he is an honorable man, and so it is impossible to grasp the great thing which has come into our lives. My employer is married and has three little children. His wife is more or less of an invalid in love. A boy about her own age has been coming to see her and her about her because he knows she would be different if she were not sick.

Do you think it would be possible for me to go on working for the man I love, without either of us forgetting again? My employer said he would not mention love again if I would stay. I don't know what to do. I love him, and I will follow your advice because I want to do the right thing, but I am so involved that I do not know what is right. So often an outsider is a better judge.

ROSA LIND.

Get another position. To remain with your present employer under the circumstances which exist would be playing with fire. I doubt if it would be possible for you to go on without being frightfully burned. Do the brave, right thing and you will not regret it as long as you live.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My daughter is 17 years old and she thinks she is in love. A boy about her own age has been coming to see her and her

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

Historically, Arizona is both the youngest and the oldest of the states to be admitted to the Union and as such dates its existence from the time of the first visit of the white man. While the territory was explored by Coronado in search of the mythical wealth of the Indian cities, Coronado, though failing to find the fabled gold, did discover the Grand Canyon of the Colorado with its wonderful scenic beauty, which has become one of the great assets of the state.

in inaccessible places have caused much speculation as to these ancient people. It is supposed that these Cliff Dwellers were the ancestors of the Pueblo Indians and were directly more advanced in civilization than their neighbors. They were probably of the same race as the Aztecs of Mexico and understood irrigation, agriculture and the building arts.

It was rumors of the great Pueblos that instigated the first visit of the white man. While Naranjo in 1520 explored this territory and he was followed by Coronado in search of the mythical wealth of the Indian cities, Coronado, though failing to find the fabled gold, did discover the Grand Canyon of the Colorado with its wonderful scenic beauty, which has become one of the great assets of the state.

DASHING RACINE BOYS BACK HERE IN SUNDAY GAME

While the Dempsey-Carpentier international scrap is holding the center of interest in the sporting world Saturday and Sunday, the popularity of the exciting game of baseball is steadily rising and promising to exceed Friday's record of 93 in the shade, another battle is scheduled for Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds. The Janesville Tractors cross bats with the Kansas City Monarchs, a gang of colored boys that is said to be burning up the country handbouts. The Kansas crew are not alone, some advance done that they are leading the negro national league, an insurgent organization that has teams in many of the large cities of the country. One of the teams in that circuit is the Rubber City Colored Giants, the speediest outfit of dark men in the country. The Monarchs are leading them by half a game.

On Sunday, rivalry that comes close to holding an equal to Janesville-Beloit contests will mark the game between the Tractors and the Racine Rubbers. The Rubbers hold two wins over the locals, both of 19 innings and by a run each. Without a doubt this game should be the keenest of the season here.

St. Louis is coming down with a gang of rooters larger than they had here last Saturday. This will probably be the last game here for several weeks. On Monday the Tractors have three games away from home. They face the Highway Trailers of Edgerton there at 10 o'clock in the morning. At 1 in the afternoon, they play a second game, Stoughton at Stoughton.

HOOPER BREAKS HAND; SOX, CUBS WINNERS EGANS SWAMP BLUES

Two homers in the majors; 10 in the associations.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Hit on the hand by a pitched ball, Hooper received a fracture Friday and will be out of the game for days. Despite the loss, the Sox turned around and, in the second game, 4 to 2, led by the work of Everett Twombly on the mound, Williams again scored a homer.

Washington and Philadelphia split in a double header Friday. The second game was won by the Senators, 1 to 0. Score for the game was 2 to 1.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Fourteen hard blows were made by St. Louis, but Chicago Alexander pitched but Chicago managed to beat out a win, 5 to 6. Kellenner made a homer.

Pittsburgh took a chunk out of the title of champion Friday in beating out a 5 to 3 victory. Kopf's error with the sacks full and two out gave the game to the Pirates.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

Five Kansas City pitchers were hit hard by the Milwaukee outfit Friday for a 15 to 6 win. Three home runs featured.

Seven homers marked two games between the Indians and Toledo. The Mathews took both battles, 8 to 6 and 7 to 4.

Both contests at Columbus went to extra innings, 8 to 4 and 4 to 1. The second went 11 innings.

GATES OF ARENA WERE OPEN AT 9:45 A. M.

As early as the proverbial sunrise, and spectators on future history.

Democratic Chatter.

And that it did this democracy of the ring. The chief topic at first was the weather. A sultry day had followed a humid night. The sun tried to pierce the evening clouds that gave a constant threat of rain, then gave up the attempt after a brief unsuccessful effort. It was an ideal for the spectators, for no one longed for the scorching sun and no one wanted it to rain.

But the crowd had many things to talk about. Everyone had something in common—fear of southern interest in the fight. The fight was a canvas-covered square in front of them. This led to conversation, even among men and women as far as the lower end of the arena and the lower end of the arena.

Rich and Poor on Hand.

For they were all here—societies, women and men, the merchant prince, and the 20 clerk who worked for him, the man who lived by his brains and his fellow without a profession, and sportsmen from five continents.

Travelers who landed in Host Rickard's seventh circle of seats, running the amphitheater, came with glasses to span the 300 feet to the ring. Many carried, as part of their regular equipment, sun glasses, one pair of pillows, as many as the old family sofa at home held; sandwiches, fans as numerous as the wings of the famous Jersey "Skeeters" that also swarmed to Boyle's 30 heroes.

What the fight fans saw when they arrived was a great hot line of men and women, a great hallow in which the "Woodstock" building could have lain down without scarcely having to draw in its neck; a great hollow, from the bottom of which only the sky, a fringe of Jersey City's famous smokestacks and two buildings could be seen.

There were black specks a top one building that looked suspiciously like human figures.

Workmen Busy.

In the arena, which from its top-most tier flew at regular intervals the tri-color of France and the flag of America, an army of workmen put on the last touches.

The ring was the scene of the greatest activity. The canvas-covered ring was pulled taut and the ropes bound with white flannel tape.

About the ring, experts were setting up telegraph instruments which were to take tidings from the ring-side around the globe over more than a million miles of wires.

Further back in the arena hundreds of ushers in red caps and food vendors in white coats bustled, yielding themselves hoarse.

Towering 30 feet above the ring and more than 50 feet away was a

Discuss Fighters.

Meanwhile the steadily growing throng discussed Dempsey the terrible and Carpentier the mysterious. While the men confined themselves chiefly to such technical details as reach, muscle development, stamina and the thousand and one other ingredients that go into the making of a pugilist, the women contented themselves chiefly with analysis of the boxers' looks. The fighting fans of the American, which they had come to know in the movies, astounded them in the arena. With others only fascinated, the women described the line that Carpentier, described by one British writer as a Greek god with a punch, would fight without his wavy, blonde pompadour, which had come the way of all pompadours when serious business was at hand.

Indeed, after hearing all the accounts of how Jack had grown whiskers to protect his jaw and George had shorn his locks so he could not be lowered around the ring by them, a spectator wondered if he would be able to recognize the fighters when they entered the squared circle in their disguises.

Closets Can't See.

The folk who were closer to the ring in this big fight than any one else couldn't see a thing. They were the wire chiefs, with headquarters under the ring beneath the boxers' very feet. They could hear the thud of a knockdown, but couldn't tell who was knocked.

CHAMP AND CARP SPEND GOOD NIGHT

Fighters Light Hearted as Day of Big Battle Dawns—Early on the Scene.

Jersey City—Never felt better in my life, remarked Jack Dempsey as he sat down to a light breakfast Saturday morning in a private home here, where he had spent the night. The champion slept without interruption from 10 p. m. until 7 Saturday morning, and awoke in a happy frame of mind. Teddy Hayes, his trainer, who occupied an adjoining room, was with him and Jack amused himself by tickling his trainer's nose until he opened his eyes. Then he pulled Hayes out of bed. Dempsey's breakfast consisted of two boiled eggs, toast and a pot of tea.

Accompanied by Hayes, he started out for a walk, but such a large crowd followed at his heels that he was forced to return to the house. After returning, Dempsey amused himself by playing jazz records on the talking machine. He appeared to be the most light-hearted member of his entourage and didn't show a trace of the anxiety that he naturally would be expected to feel.

Party Is Planned.

Jack Dempsey is going to put on a "big party" at the Belmont Saturday night.

"It all depends on how the old law is," Dempsey said, when asked about his after-the-fight plans. He grinned broadly and expressed the joy and challenge was expected to him at his guests would include his two brothers, Bernard and Johnny; Mayor Under of Atlantic City, where the champion trained; Manager Kearns; Training Hayes and other members of the Dempsey training squad.

The champion arrived here from Atlantic City late Friday and, with his party, was conducted by Mayor Under to the home of a Jersey City millionaire to spend the tedious hours before the battle.

Dempsey appeared as gay and carefree as a school boy and retired shortly after 2:30.

Has Been Remodeled.

Mrs. Mac Brown of Chicago, friend of Dempsey, and his forbearing landlady in the days of "slim pickin'" that preceded his rise in the pugilistic world, arrived here Friday night with two pairs of hand-made silk slippers, one of which the champion selected to wear in the ring. Mrs. Brown's idea of the slippers, which she had made, did not coincide with Dempsey's, and he had her remodel the red, white and blue belt she had made. As Mrs. Brown planned it, the belt was to fasten with hooks and eyes, the juncture being embellished with a red, white and blue rosette. Dempsey asked her to remove the rosette, which he held was too fancy, and the hooks and eyes, which he said might dig into his flesh, and to fasten the belt so it could be tied in a plain knot.

Minneapolis, N. D.—I've had a good sleep and feel fine.

This was Georges Carpentier's smiling comment, as he came out of the house at 7:45 a. m. He arose at 6:30, indulged in 15 minutes of setting-up exercises, "to open his eyes" as he trained expressed it, and then ate a light breakfast at 7 o'clock. He lounged around the house until 7:45 when, attired in an old flannel shirt, old gray trousers, cap, checkered socks and worn shoes, he emerged.

Another fighter was chucked up in the city baseball league Friday evening when the baggies failed to put in an appearance to play the Club Billiards.

Boxing's Future in Michigan Hangs on Leonard-Freedman

Benjamin Harber, Mich.—The fight between Benny Leonard and Sallor Freedman here Monday will settle more than the lightweight championship, for it will go a long way toward deciding whether boxing will be permitted in this state in the future.

A group of Michigan's highest officials will occupy ringside seats, not merely for the pleasure of watching the bout, but to form their opinion of the fight and to decide what action they may take on the question.

SLIGHT INCREASE
IN ARRESTS HERE14 More in First Six Months
This Year Over Last.

A 10 per cent increase in the number of arrests made in Jansville during the first six months of this year over the corresponding period of 1920. The slight increase is not due to liquor being more obtainable than last year but rather to more arrests for traffic violations and gambling, according to Chief Thomas Morrissey.

The decline in violations since prohibition took effect is seen in the comparison of the first half of 1919 with the period of 1920 ending June 30—446 arrests in 1919, and 244 so far this year. The total for the first half of 1920 was 189.

Now in Winter. Arrests during the first three months of the present year were less than half of the total for April, May and June.

Here is the record of arrests for the first six months of the past three years:

	1921	'20	'19
January	15	12	88
February	11	22	88
March	18	18	108
April	39	14	121
May	32	32	168
June	32	22	115
Total	147	120	698

A total of 869 arrests were made in 1919 while 217 were taken in to custody last year. The 1918 record was the highest of recent years, 924.

The June report of the police department showing 32 arrests brings out liquor as the direct cause of 11 of these. Seven were made for selling beer for violation of city ordinance, including use of cut-outs, and 6 or drunkenness. Others were as follows: Violating prohibition laws, 3; petty larceny, 4; driving while drunk, 1; allowing car to be driven by man intoxicated, 1; delinquent, 1; insane, 1.

Merton Miller made 19 arrests before his resignation as speed officer. Others made arrests as follows: Jones, 7; C. O. Lennart, 2; Stein, 2; Ward, Sackby, Barry, Myers and P. Champion, 1 each.

MAP WILL SHOW
AT GLANCE DATA
ON FACTORY SITES

Numerous calls in the nature of offers of aid are being received at the Chamber of Commerce from persons who are displaying a keen interest in the industrial survey of the city being conducted by S. N. Page, industrial engineer, Chicago.

I am studying considerable co-operation wherever I go, stated Mr. Page Friday. "The general comment is that the work shows that the Chamber of Commerce is alive."

One of the largest values of the survey maps that Mr. Page is now drawing will be to save time to those who might come here looking for available sites for factories. Instead of following around the city they will be able to get first hand data by looking over the maps.

109 IS AVERAGE
AT BIBLE SCHOOL

Attendance at the summer bible school at St. Peter's Evangelical church in the past two weeks has averaged 109, and the largest attendance has been 120, according to Pastor G. J. Muller. This is a marked increase over former years. The work is made semi-compulsory for children of the church between the ages of 7 and 15 years. The school will continue for two more weeks. There are four teachers besides Rev. M. Muller. Sessions are held in the morning only.

The children enjoy the recess period when, led by the teachers, games are played in the church yard. "Sixty so far have not missed a session and have not been tardy. All who have perfect attendance records will be given pins."

200 FEED MEN ARE TO CONVEY HERE

Two hundred feed dealers of Wisconsin and Illinois will hold a convention here July 20, according to C. E. Arthur of the Bower City feed company, this city, who is in charge of arrangements. Mr. Arthur is now at work on the program which he will announce early next week.

PARIS GREEN IS FATAL TO 21 PIGS

Chasville Center—Paris green which fell off a shelf into the feed trough proved fatal to 21 pigs belonging to Carl Carlson, North Macdonell. Mrs. Nellie Ronnison and children, Harvard, are visiting at the home of the former's parents at Chasville. The owner is spending a few days at the home of her brother, Harold Klusmeyer, Center.

CASE INVOLVING
BUT $72 IS TAKEN TO SUPREME COURT

Records in a $72 breach of contract case were sent Friday from the municipal court here to the supreme court at Madison, where the case has been appealed by the C. E. Delekson Co. of Iowa. John C. Cross is attorney for the appellant.

The case has already been tried in two local courts. In justice court the Iowa firm was awarded judgment against the defendant, C. E. Delekson Co. A 12-man jury in municipal court reversed the decision and gave $72 to the plaintiff. The suit involves a shipment of towel holders. The defense alleges that the contract for shipment was signed by Mrs. C. E. Delekson, not a partner in the company. Jurors refused to pay for the towel holders. J. J. McWilliams and J. D. Cunningham are defendants' attorneys.

CATHOLICS PICNIC

AT CHARLEY BLUFF
With reductions in wages amounting to an average of $10 per employee on the railroads of the United States effective Friday, overtime will hereafter be paid at the rate of one and a half times the rate of time and a half. This has been decided on by the United States railroad labor board in conference with the roads.

While this announcement is made, local employees of the St. Paul line are awaiting checks for time and a half time overtime put in during the past year.

FIRES AVERAGE

23 PER MONTH
Jansville's fire record this year threatens to exceed last year's mark, so far as the number of alarms in connection with fires is concerned. Of 1921, 110 alarms are recorded by Chief Con. J. Murphy. The total for the entire year of 1920 was but 216, while the 1919 record was 237. The average of the five years listed this year were turned in on election night.

PLYMOUTH

[The Gazette Correspondent.]
Plymouth—Vernon Rinchler, is riding in a new car—about 45 from here and Haverock attended the picnic of the Aid society of the St. E. church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rummage, Broadhead, last Thursday. A basket dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rinchler and Mrs. Vernon, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rinchler and daughter were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Perkins, Deloit. Vernon Rinchler had the misfortune to fall from a horse, bruising his arm—Mrs. August Damerow, Haverock, suffered a stroke of paralysis while visiting at the home of her son, Roy, at Deloit. Mr. A. Royce has a new granary, and is having his other buildings repainted—Mrs. Earl Royce was taken to Deloit hospital Saturday morning. Deloit, Mrs. Minnie Stekman, Mrs. Fred Royce and daughter, Laura, Haverock, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Arnold, Broadhead, last Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rummage, Broadhead—Mrs. John Zabel, who is ill, is reported to be on the mend. Mr. McCann, pastor of the St. E. church, was a caller in this vicinity last week—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Perkins and Mrs. Flora Perkins were here last week. They attended the picnic at Deloit. Mrs. D. Horley is spending his summer vacation with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. McCann, Madison road.

Wife, Peeved, Wants Divorce;
Husband of Two Wifeless and Unhappy.

Whiner, S. D.—That he had been drugged and then kidnapped by Melissa Dawson, 25 years old, in order that she might lead her victim to the altar, is the charge of August Loebe, 40, winner, S. D., farmer. Loebe has a wife and two children. A few weeks ago he visited Kansas City. In a restaurant he met Melissa Dawson, a waitress. She told him she was going to live on a farm. He hired her and brought her back to his ranch. A few days ago Mrs. Loebe and the children went to Denver on a visit. Loebe charged that it was during this time that Melissa produced a box of chocolates and made him eat them.

Learned He Had New Wife.

Loebe returned to find an indignant wife waiting for him. She refused to believe her husband, although he still has his marriage certificate to Melissa. His wife has asked for a divorce.

A few days later Melissa turned up at the Loebe farm again. She says that Loebe made love to her there. He told her his first marriage was only a common law affair and that he would marry her. She is preparing a suit for $10,000 heart balm. Loebe holds two more marriage certificates, but can't get either wife to talk to him.

$1,335 RECEIVED

AS PAY FOR TANKS

Pay checks amounting to $1,335 for 32 men and officers of the second platoon of the Wisconsin national guard, have been received. This is pay for nine months at a basic sum of $1 per drill.

The checks run from $12 to $65 for each man. Most of the corps is composed of specialists who receive extra base pay.

Substitute American

Crude Oil for Mexican

New York—Officials of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey told the United States customs officials that the company and notified the shipping board it no longer will include Mexican crude oil in contract shipments, but will substitute American oil.

The company has contracts to supply the board with $18,000,000 barrels of fuel oil.

The change, it was said, resulted from the change in oil taxes, scheduled to go into effect Friday, which the company characterized as confiscatory.

PORTER

SENATOR FRANCE ON WAY TO MOSCOW IN
DINGY RAIL COACH

[By Associated Press.]
Riga—United States Senator Joseph I. France, who plans to confer with Russian soviet officials relative to trade conditions, left Riga for Moscow Thursday night. He rode in a dingy old railroad car which would take him through to the soviet capital, and was accompanied by a fuzzy haired, bearded young man who spoke with more or less accuracy 12 languages.

The luxurious sleeping car, usually provided for bolshevik diplomats on the trip from Riga to Moscow and in which distinguished guests of the soviet government have been taken to the capital, failed to materialize.

Senator France and his companion had one small compartment entirely to themselves, but there was no bedding except a mattress. The senator provided his own sleeping bag.

"I will be perfectly comfortable," the senator declared as his train pulled out. "I have traveled, standing, before this."

[By Associated Press.]
Riga—United States Senator Joseph I. France, who plans to confer with Russian soviet officials relative to trade conditions, left Riga for Moscow Thursday night. He rode in a dingy old railroad car which would take him through to the soviet capital, and was accompanied by a fuzzy haired, bearded young man who spoke with more or less accuracy 12 languages.

The luxurious sleeping car, usually provided for bolshevik diplomats on the trip from Riga to Moscow and in which distinguished guests of the soviet government have been taken to the capital, failed to materialize.

Senator France and his companion had one small compartment entirely to themselves, but there was no bedding except a mattress. The senator provided his own sleeping bag.

"I will be perfectly comfortable," the senator declared as his train pulled out. "I have traveled, standing, before this."

JUNE LIGHT MONTH
FOR BUILDING HERE

June was a light month for the start of building operations in Jansville according to the report of F. J. Blain, city building inspector, showing permits issued for only $27,275 worth of new construction. He reports 39 permits, 119 inspections, and $44.60 in fees.

Included in the list are four dwellings at $2,000, 11 garages, three shops, 18 additions and alterations, two equipment and heating, and one miscellaneous.

Fans May Rave Over the Pickford Curls But Mary Hates Them

Copyright, 1921, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate and Hayden Talbot.

He travelled 6,000 miles to get the "World's Sweetheart" to consent.

Hayden Talbot, the journalist, wanted Mary Pickford to narrate her story to him and knew that it was easier to approach royalty than movie stars.

On his way he learned that he would need more tact than a diplomat and the power of an absolute monarch.

Somehow he got both—and Mr. Talbot tells how his enterprise overcame many odds and how the famous star was induced to say "yes."

Mary Pickford is a poor little rich girl—because she wants to be. With more money that she can ever spend, she confesses that she does not know how to spend it.

She knew what hard work was when she was a little tot of five years—and a dollar looks just as big to her now as it did to her wide, eager eyes then.

But it is only for herself that she does not know how to spend; other people are always welcome to her money when in need.

In this part of her story, "Our Mary" tells her philosophy of finance and how she dreads ever having everything she wants.

"MY LIFE"

As Told By

MARY PICKFORD

To HAYDEN TALBOT

YOU know many of us have to suffer the stigma of being niggardly—when the truth is we are not niggardly at all. I don't know anything about the man they joke most about in this country—Harry Lauder—because I've never seen any instance of his generosity or the reverse. But I'm quite sure, off hand, that he isn't at all the miser our joke-smiths picture him.

Take Charlie Chaplin, for example. Many people say he is downright stingy. Next to Douglas, I think I know Charlie as well as I know any man in the world—and I know he isn't close-fisted. The truth is that Charlie, like me, doesn't know how to spend money.

Doesn't Want to Have All She Wants

People who criticize us on this score don't stop to think that spending money is an art—to be learned by experience like any other art. Not only that, spending money requires time—it one is to do it well. And in Harry Lauder's case, as in Charlie's and mine, we have always been and are too busy with work to have time to learn the art of spending our earnings.

I've been working ever since I was five years old—very busily working—all the time. My trip to England was the very first really truly holiday I had since I was five.

But in fact a dollar is just as big in my eyes today as it was fifteen years ago—and fifteen years ago a dollar was very, very big!

After several months of insistent salesmanship methods, an agent of the Rolls Royce people finally managed the other day to get me to sign a contract for the purchase of a Rolls Royce chassis. Ever since I did it I've had the most awful time with my conscience. It seems such a wickedly extravagant thing for me to have done. Of course I have had my Packard car for three and a half years, and I've really got much more than original value out of it—and it is still in perfect condition and I can sell it at a very good figure. But truly, I've lain awake fighting with myself—trying to persuade myself that I am not riotously extravagant!

It's not only that I don't know how to spend money recklessly on myself, there is something else that always serves to hold me in check. I know—instinctively and by observations—that there is nothing in the world more dreadful than complete satisfaction.

As a little girl I read "Christmas Every Day"—and I never forgot how terrible was the fate of the child who made that wish—and got it!

Even as a child I could understand how such an unending succession of Christmases would drive anybody mad. In those days there seemed little likelihood that anything approaching the possibility of such a thing in my own case would ever happen. But now that it has—I keep that child's fate very much before my mind.

Makes Believe She Can't Afford Things

It is a matter of principle with me—applied every day in the year—never to allow myself to have all I want of anything. I often go down town to buy a dress or hat. Often I see several I'd love to have. Let's say it's a hat, for example. I buy one, and then see another I'd really rather have than the one I've already bought. Do I buy the second one? I do not. I go home without it! And all the time I wish terribly that I could afford to have bought it! Or course I know underneath all the time I could afford it, but I make myself believe I can't! And that lets me always want for something more than I've got! I think I should die if I ever really had all I wanted.

MARY PICKFORD'S ENVOIS:

Envious not of royal princesses nor of those who sit in the seats of the mighty, but of the girls who work in stores and shops—with their eight or ten hours of work, and then freedom to do as they please.

In the times between pictures—for every girl who is successful on the screen—there is hardly less work to be done than when she is working on a picture. It seems to be forever necessary, for instance, to have new portraits made. And don't imagine for a moment that because one is a motion picture actress it makes posing at a photographer's less an ordeal. Really, for me at any rate, it is the task I dread most. And more than once I have posed for portraits 15 hours without interruption.

At moments when I am very, very tired and see ahead of me vast mountains of work, I envy the girls who work in stores and shops, with their mere eight hours of work!

And so here is my advice to the girl who would become a motion picture actress:

Don't—unless you are willing to work harder than you would ever be called upon to work in any other line of endeavor.

Do—if the prospect of hard work doesn't frighten you; because in every other way motion pictures offer all real rewards or worth-while value to any girl who can win them.

HOW HAYDEN TALBOT GOT THE STORY

WHEN I arrived in Los Angeles, direct from London, I was none too sure I could induce Miss Pickford to grant me the amount of time necessary for me to obtain from her the whole story of her career.

In a general way—from earlier experience among motion picture stars—I knew that as compared with their activities a one-armed man juggling three billiard balls would present the appearance of complete indolence!

What is more to the point, I knew that in the case of Miss Pickford there must be scores of demands upon her time every day that she could not possibly consider—if she were to continue making pictures.

Wherefore, I went at the task of acquainting her with my mission in a roundabout fashion. (On other occasions, I have walked directly into the presence of a British cabinet minister, and have been no less direct in my approach to important officers of the American government—but that is different!)

When I reached Los Angeles, Miss Pickford was just finishing "cuttings" her newest picture and conferring with the heads of her organization regarding her next picture. This much information I obtained from her director the night of my arrival.

What he did not tell me—probably because he had no idea of it—was that in addition to the mountainous mass of work demanding Miss Pickford's attention, there was also impending her since widely exploited trip to Nevada for the purpose of dissolving the bonds of matrimony which had held her legally for eleven years to a man her own testimony declares was actually her husband for a very brief part of the time.

But from him I learned enough to convince me that to get the "story" I had crossed an ocean and continent to get I must proceed with unusual tact, and bring to bear all the influence I could muster.

Wherefore, instead of approaching Miss Pickford directly, I began operations via her ubiquitous press agent, a person of ample good nature, whose unenviable lot it is to receive all and sundry who come seeking interviews with the world's sweetheart.

As good luck would have it, Miss Pickford's publicity expert is an old-time journalist with whom I have had an acquaintance covering many years. At the outside, therefore, it was established that my mission was deserving of Miss Pickford's consideration—thus falling into the category of one-in-a-hundred. For this is about the ratio.

Of all the countless thousands who visit the Pickford studio in the course of a year—from mere curiosity seekers to fly-by-night promoters with sure-fire schemes which require only Miss Pickford's financial support to become world-beaters—the average is one in a hundred who really have a reasonable excuse for expecting to be received by her.

And the result was, as you see, success! Miss Pickford was induced to give me a part of her valuable time, and her own life story.

Wants to Learn English.

"The one thing I want to accomplish more than any other is to learn to speak English."

That was Miss Pickford's remarkable reply to my question regarding her dearest ambition.

"Speak English?" I echoed, my tone reflecting my amazement.

"English," she replied with an arching of her eyebrows (brows not "shaped," let it be stated here, and emphatically in view of the general prevalence of this newest fad that has swept all America and all grades of society) and a twinkle in the deep blue eyes.

"But you do speak English," I protested.

"You know I don't," she parried. I confessed my inability to understand her meaning.

"I mean," she continued calmly, earnestly, "that I speak American. You know the old story about the sign on the Swiss hotel, 'English spoken; American understood.' That's what I mean."

I began to understand.

"But your English is good," I ventured.

She smiled a negative.

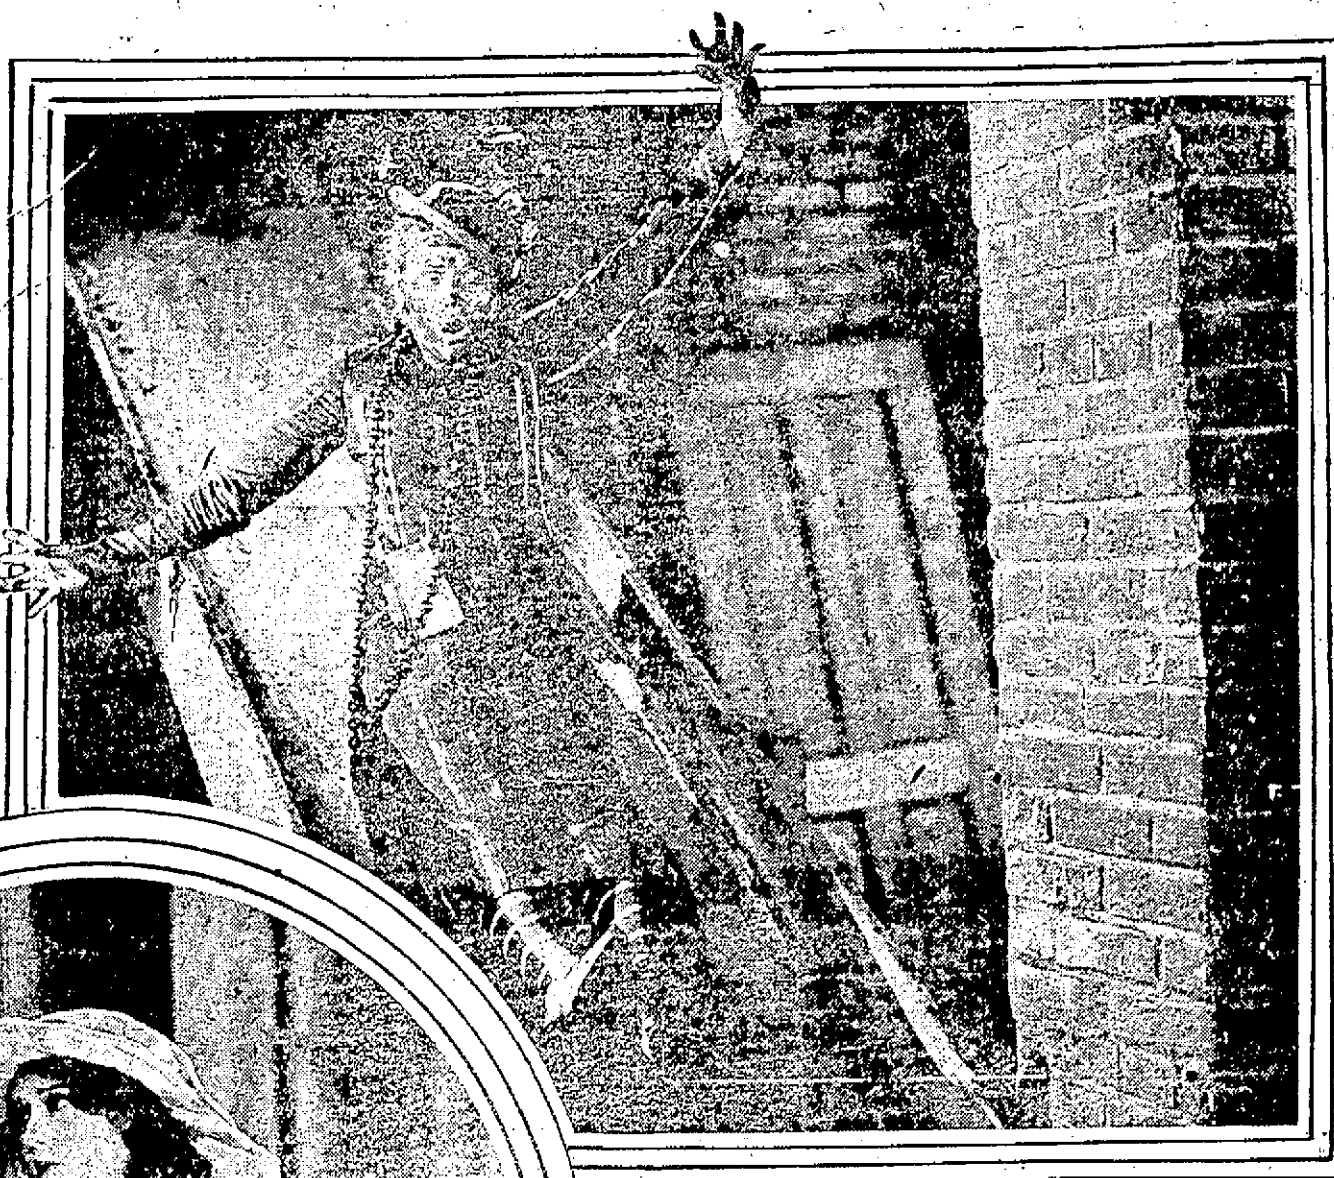

"You're good to say so, but you know it's not true. It couldn't be true. Although, of course, I was born a British subject, with an Englishman my father, I left Canada when I was so young and since then have lived my life in the States—among people whose English is about as correct as a Cockney's—my own speech simply couldn't be good English."

To me the idea was fascinating. The biggest money-making star of the films—to whom the spoken word means less in so far as her professional career is concerned than to any of her brothers and sisters in

At the left: Mary Pickford, now that she has her own company, refuses to be just the "pretty girl." She takes joy in character parts that demand much more than prettiness.

Below, at the left, is hard-worked Mary, the envious little actress who thinks a girl selling things over a counter, has an enviable time because of her short hours. And it's a good picture of the Pickford curls, that Mary hates and the public loves.
